Paycheck coming in? Check if a bank will pay you a bonus to switch.

Some banks pay new customers a bonus. Nothing is promised.

DO THESE TODAY

0. Get a paycheck, pension or benefit deposit? If not, skip this sheet.

1. Pick a bank. Check it is insured: fdic.gov/bankfind

2. Read its offer on the bank's page. Not new? Skip it.

3. Open it only on the bank's own site. Write your new numbers:

Account # _____ Routing # _____

4. Move one bill at a time. Keep your old account open, with enough in it to pay bills until each one moves:

Bill: _____ Bill: _____ Bill: _____ Bill: _____

Forgot one? Must-pays (rent, utilities, phone, loan, card, medical, insurance): pay now. Others can likely go. Late fee? Ask to waive it.

TWO WORRIES, ANSWERED

"All my bills are set up through my bank." Move only the few you pick.

"The rules are too hard." Most offers come down to 3 checks:

☐ Direct deposit: how much, from whom? Transfers often don't count.

☐ Minimum balance: how much, how long, any fee?

☐ Timing: days to deposit, days to stay open, day the bonus is paid.

STAY SAFE

Never pay for a bonus or open one for someone else. Don't open one you can't keep above its minimum. A fee can cost more than the bonus. Skip it if you might overdraft, or if moving your pay could make you miss a bill. Some banks check ChexSystems, your banking history. An old unpaid overdraft can mean no. Bank bonuses count as taxable interest income, and banks usually report them to the IRS on a Form 1099-INT.

BANKS TO CHECK

Bank	Link
Chase	chase.com/checking
Capital One	capitalone.com/bank
Citi	citi.com/banking/special-offers

Official help: fdic.gov, consumerfinance.gov

Free group: skool.com/little-level-ups-5574 (or scan)

Not financial advice. I'm David, and I'm not a financial advisor.